

PATRICK ADAIR

SENIOR DIRECTOR

LONDON

quick facts

- 12+ years of experience working on complex carve-outs, integrations and transformations
- Proven expertise in global program management and operating model design
- Serves corporate and PE clients in telecoms, energy, consumer goods and business services sectors

Patrick (Paddy) Adair is a Senior Director with Alvarez & Marsal Corporate Transformation Services in London. He brings over 12 years of experience working on transformations and M&A situations for both corporate and private equity clients within the telecoms, energy, consumer goods and business services sectors.

Mr. Adair has led international teams through more than 17 major transactions and transformations, with a particular focus on target operating model design and the execution of complex carve-outs, integrations and change programs.

Mr. Adair's notable engagements include operating model design and integration execution support to create a $10 billion healthcare joint venture; operational carve-out and business stand-up support in connection with the acquisition of a $3.1 billion business services company; pre- and post-deal merger integration support in connection with a U.K. grocery market acquisition; and post-deal finance function transformation and shared services implementation, and operating model design and integration execution support in connection with a $6.1 billion shipping and gas trading portfolio expansion.

Prior to joining A&M, Mr. Adair worked in Deloitte's Post-Merger-Integration (Transaction Services) team and was part of Accenture's Energy practice, where he supported acquisition and divestment programs with a number of oil and gas supermajors.

Mr. Adair earned a bachelor's degree in law from Newcastle University. He also completed the Corporate Law Legal Practice Course at the College of Law in Manchester.